

Harbor's visit

Contrast of buildings and lighting, the old and the new city. Cities grow but not always as we would like.

Harbor at night

Stained glasses at the old shipyards.

Stained glasses

The crane cab reminded me of that movie where José Luis López Vázquez was locked in a phone booth. Of course there is no phone or no one locked but the situation of the cab made me think of the isolation and loneliness that often live in this overpopulated world.

The cab

See you soon.