

Christmas Sunset

Join Christmas with a landscape and you'll find a place full of snow, cold. But this not happened this year in Molinos. We climbed to the peak of the antennas, a family outing, and we took the opportunity to take some photos. There weren't vultures, it was time to sleep for them, but here are the impressions of that time.

Pink sky

The sun sets, the town remains

Stones witness

Until next time ...